Yes Sir... The FBI Knows Every Move

IN THE VALLEY OF THE MOON

Well . . . Well . . . Well . . . If you don't think Moonbeams gets around, we now have the proof that it does . . .

United States Department of Justice
Federal Bureau of Investigation

Washington 25, D. C.
December 4, 1958

Mr. Bill Sandlin
Post Office Box 446
Boyes Hot Springs, California

Dear Mr. Sandlin:

Mr. William W. Burke, Jr., Special Agent in Charge of our San Francisco Division, has called to my attention the editorial appearing in the November 21, 1958, issue of "Moonbeams," and I wanted to take this opportunity to write you to express my deep appreciation for your support in the face of the criticism being leveled against this Bureau.

It is encouraging for us to know that we will have earned your confidence, and you may be assured that we will endeavor to continue to merit your approval in our future activities.

Sincerely yours,
J. Edgar Hoover

OBITUARY: I. TRYIT

—O—

Mr. Tryit was taken ill on Sunday with a severe cold. Sunday night, at the suggestion of his wife, he gargled his throat with antiseptic tablets.

Monday morning he consulted a doctor, who touched his tonsils with nitrate of silver.

Monday night he sipped hot lemonade at the suggestion of his sister.

Tuesday morning his mother-in-law advised a gargle of salt and vinegar, which was promptly used.

Tuesday night Mr. Tryit asked the advice of a neighbor, and retired beneath a cold compress.

Wednesday morning he arose and sipped rock candy, flax seed and lemon juice, prescribed for him by his niece.

Wednesday night he took castor oil and donned a flannel night-shirt to produce sweat.

Thursday morning he took strong ginger tea, brewed by a trained nurse who lived across the street.

Thursday night he put on goose grease and snuffed camphor, at the instance of his grandmother.

Friday morning his maiden aunt offered a solution of catnip and alum, which Mr. Tryit used as a gargle.

Friday night his brother suggested golden-seal, carbolic acid and quinine.

Saturday morning at 6:36 the end came.

Only relatives and close friends will be present at the funeral.
